

We wish to share some important information regarding abstract submissions to ESGE Days 2023.

We recognize that endoscopists and allied health care professionals, especially those in training or at the start of their careers, may not be ready to submit scientific abstracts from research studies. We are therefore encouraging young endoscopists to share interesting and educationally valuable endoscopy case reports from their daily practice and hope that the international exposure to their work will be advantageous to their careers.

More information can be found here: <https://esgedays.org/abstracts>.

Kind regards,

The ESGE Days Team
