VIRTUAL 2021

Second day of innovation and learning

While the Monday of UEG Week Virtual has come to an end, we are pleased to say that even more renowned scientific content awaits you. Take a virtual step in the right direction and choose to meet, exchange and evolve with international peers and colleagues in the field of digestive health. The only thing separating you from world class science is another click. Register for UEG Week Virtual now.

World of Science: Ongoing excellence

Monday marked the centre of the UEG Week Virtual 2021 programme and featured more breaking science from the digestive health community. The final event of the day saw Dirk Haller receive the UEG Research Prize 2021 for his research "Repurposing mitochondria-protective targets for adjuvant IBD therapy". Have a look at today's Daily Recap to catch up on all the best action!

If you want a succinct yet lively overview of UEG Week Virtual highlights selected by our top experts, then we have just what the doctor ordered. Make sure to check out our UEG Week Digested brought to you live from our TV Studio in Vienna on Monday and Tuesday morning. During the Case closed? Live Expert lunch common clinical situations are discussed that everyone could face in their clinical every-day life.
